

Fellowes Expands the Popular Sena and Rising Series.

Itasca, IL – [August 21, 2024] – Fellowes, a leading brand in the contract interiors space, is excited to announce significant extensions to its acclaimed Sena and Rising product lines. These enhancements are set to elevate the workspaces with new levels of functionality and aesthetic appeal.

Responding to the growing demand for versatile and robust monitor solutions, Fellowes is expanding its Sena line with six new configurations. The SenaEX4 and SenaEX6 monitor arms are designed to accommodate four and six monitors, respectively, with options including four quad configurations and two six-monitor configurations. These additions provide unparalleled flexibility for multi-monitor setups, ensuring that every screen is perfectly positioned for maximum productivity and ergonomic comfort.

In addition to the enhanced monitor arms, Fellowes is introducing two innovative laptop holders, one for the Sena series and one for the Rising series. These new holders are proprietary designs that seamlessly integrate with the existing product lines, offering secure and stylish arm support for laptops alongside monitors within any workspace.

Both product line extensions are available in three sophisticated finishes: black, white, and silver. These finishes are not only visually appealing but also practical, as they are stocked and ready for 48-hour shipping. This ensures that designers and professionals can quickly access the products they need to complete their projects on time.

The new models are Level 2 Certified and BIFMA Compliant, meeting the highest industry standards of quality and safety. Additionally, they are backed by the Fellowes Lifetime Warranty, offering users peace of mind and long-term reliability.
