

Fellowes Launches Titan™ Frameless, the Most Adaptable Modular Wall

ITASCA, IL – [JANUARY 7, 2025] – Fellowes, a family-owned workplace solutions provider with a four-generation legacy, proudly announced the launch of Titan™ Frameless offering, the most adaptable system in modular walls to provide custom, easy-to-install environments for any space.

The new Titan Frameless modular wall system transforms your space quickly and sustainably – designed for seamless installation and future adaptability. Titan provides a low-profile trim for a minimalistic design or three interchangeable trim design options, that allows for low-cost future refreshes.

All trim options can be converted to support single- to double-glazed systems which enable greater sound insulation without disassembly of the wall structure. Titan also introduces a Universal Track System™ that utilizes the same parts for the system’s ceilings, floors, and walls, resulting in a reduction in the number of unique parts for faster and simpler installation.

Titan Frameless walls offer limitless design options, with expansive aesthetics, trim styles, finishes, and materials for infinite freedom to create walls that fit any space and need. New premium alliance partnerships with 3form and Skyline, allow Fellowes Titan Frameless modular walls to offer textured and decorative material options to complement any design aesthetic.

Titan walls are smartly built for both the planet and your business. The modular walls are constructed with up to 90% less waste compared to traditionally framed walls and require less on-site energy to construct. The majority of Titan Frameless components are made from aluminum and glass, resulting in a more recyclable wall system. Titan also is LEVEL® 1 certified meeting the ANSI-BIFMA e3 Sustainability Standard. Titan walls are also built to last and provide greater cost-effectiveness for businesses as they are designed to be rearranged, reconfigured, and reused for years to come. The robust design and engineering of Titan allows Fellowes to back the product offering with an industry-leading Fellowes Lifetime Warranty.

“Demand for modular walls is rising, and Fellowes is pleased to add this comprehensive solution to our line of modular wall systems to meet the functionality and design needs of an office with less hassle, less waste, and less cost than traditional wall construction,” said John Fellowes, President and CEO, Fellowes. “We’re confident that Titan is the most advanced and adaptable modular system on the market for any organization seeking to redesign their space.”

Titan provides end-to-end customer support through Fellowes' network of design, planning, production, project management, and installation teams working together to deliver extraordinary final results. With the addition of Titan to its comprehensive suite of modular wall solutions, such as Volo, Fellowes offers a full portfolio of modular wall systems for any type of space design.
